

Mating disruption/SIR

Last Call in Syria: Effective codling moth control under extreme pressure

M. Mansour, John McLaughlin and Philipp Kirsch
Department of Molecular Biology and Biotechnology, Syrian Atomic Energy Commission,
Damascus, Syria

Keywords: Last Call CM, apple, Syria, codling moth

Abstract: Last Call CM was evaluated in several different apple orchards in Syria in 2001 and 2002 following the breakdown of other CM management tactics in these orchards. Results are presented on pheromone trap catch, mating of tethered females, and fruit damage. Codling moth was controlled very effectively with the attract and kill tactic.